I am so glad to see that he has given you, for publication, an account of his long and varied experiences in British Columbia, experiences which have been of great value to the province. In these generous terms of appreciation of Mr. Walter Moberly s services to this province, the Hon. Edgar Dewdney wrote me two months ago, at the time that the veteran explorer s reminiscences were appearing Sunday by Sunday. Mr. Dewdney, who has himself rendered great services, not only to this province, but to the Dominion at large, as trail-maker, explorer and administrator, knew Mr. Moberly intimately as a comrade in the early, strenuous days of which this story treats. Appreciation from such a source is, therefore, of much value. I quote this extract as most representative of the many letters of appreciation of Mr. Moberly s services to the province - some of which do not hesitate to point out that those services do not seem to have been appreciated by the province - that I have received during the publication of his story. I hope, later, to publish in book form the stories of adventure and achievement of Mr. Dewdney himself, Mr. Henry J. Cambie and other pioneers of the province, whose reminiscences I have had the pleasure of recording in the columns of The News-Advertiser, for such reminiscences, like those of Mr. Moberly, are part of...
