There is also provision, for more justly famous, indicating that there may be a candidate who would be eligible for selection, but who is not so especially eligible as to be selected as one of the American men who are in any one year to be chosen. It may therefore follow that a candidate of one season should fail of election because it is thought that other candidates are more justly famous. Hence it has frequently happened in the history of nominations for the Hall of Fame that the candidate for one year who has elected in a subsequent season. In 1910 it appears from the report to the electors made by the Senate of New York University, that William Pepperrell received the votes of four college presidents, three professors of history and scientists, five publicists, editors and authors, and five jurors, making seventeen in all. In that report he was classed among famous American soldiers. Undoubtedly his military achievements were those which gave him greatest fame, but in judging of the man he should be ranked in the Seventh or General Class. He was for twenty-eight years an upright and efficient chief justice, learned in the law of his colony. About the Publisher Forgotten Books...
